LOCAL HISTORY WORKSHOP

Co-organized by the Department of History, KKTm Govt. Pullut and the Department of History, St. Mary's College, Thrissur (24th to 28th November 2020)

Time: 7 PM

Local history is not localized history or history of a series of unconnected localities. Local history is indeed Microhistory, but located in the context of the Macro. What is local is intelligible only in its wider context: National and Global.

24 November 2020

Welcome
A.M. Shinas
(HOD of History, KKTm Govt. College, Pullut)

Presidential Address:
Dr. Nassy E.A.
(Principal, KKTm College, Pullut)

Chief Guest & Keynote
Address:
Dr. P.P. Abdul Razak
(E.C Member, KCHR, GC Member, Centre for Malabar Studies)

What is Local history? What do we mean by a locality? How did it come into existence? What are the unconventional sources available for the writing of local history? What is the relationship between the local and the national? If the methodology of local history is different from the standard type, how can we explain the nuances of the innovative methodology? What is at the heart of the present popularity of local history? The workshop co-organized by the Department of History, KKTm Govt. College, Pullut and the Department of History, St. Mary's College, Thrissur from 24th to 28th November, 2020 addresses these pertinent issues. It is intended to broaden and enrich the minds of the postgraduate students and young researchers.
